

PRESS RELEASE

Canadian Journal of History* is now available from the University of Toronto Press

Toronto, February 24, 2014: The University of Toronto Press is pleased to announce the addition of the Canadian Journal of History to the UTP journal publishing program, joining a group of distinguished learned journals.

Canadian Journal of History/Annales canadiennes d'histoire (JCH/ACH) is a peer-reviewed journal of general history publishing in both English and French. Geared to all professional historians, as well as to anyone interested in historical scholarship, it features articles and reviews by experts, and invites contributions from all geographical, temporal, and thematic subfields. The journal has resisted the trend toward increased specialization and offers an excellent way to keep up with developments across the discipline. Since its foundation at the University of Saskatchewan in 1966, the CJH has built a solid international reputation and enjoys a wide readership. For information relating to submissions, editorial board, online access, graduate essay competition, and theme issues visit <http://www.utpjournals.com/Canadian-Journal-of-History.html>

Founded in 1901, University of Toronto Press (UTP) is Canada's leading scholarly publisher and one of the largest university presses in North America. UTP publishes approximately 200 new books and 35 journals annually in a wide range of disciplines. A leader in its field, the UTP Journals Division publishes a wide selection of scholarly journals and magazines in both print and online formats and is dedicated to innovation in publishing and the sustainability of scholarly journals. The Journals team works hand-in-hand with editors and associations to assist publications in achieving their goals in the most efficient and cost effective manner – resulting in major strides forward in areas such as online peer review systems and online advance publishing.
